

December 4, 2020

Pastor Green's Daily Encouragement

A blessed morning everyone! We've awoken to a new day, new opportunities, mercies from God that are new to us too. Every new morning has great possibilities awaiting us, what we do with them are up to you and me. We can elect to learn something new today, or cook or bake something new. We can use our new day to help someone else today, perhaps call someone who is older and not quite ready to go back into the world yet. We can spend some time in the study of God's Word, or simply in prayer; I recommend both.

Maybe you could really use a day to rest from your labors, then take a nap today, it may be just what you need. Don't spend your day watching the television, get up and move, think, breathe. Today is a great day to begin a new hobby, something you've been wanting to do but haven't been able to find the time, well, find some today. We have been given this day as a gift, and we have no idea how many more we have coming, so don't waste it, embrace it, and enjoy it. You are a child of God, and that makes you precious, and loved, and beautiful. Our song today is from Mercy Me, and it is called "Beautiful." Peace and joy and love and mercy to you and yours today.