

December 5, 2020

Pastor Green's Daily Encouragement

Hi there! You know I hate to keep reminding you of this, but there are only two more Saturdays before Christmas. We've all been saying that we can't wait for 2020 to end, but the speed that it's moving is a little too fast. Not that I'm hoping that winter stays longer, I'm just not all that ready for Christmas yet. I'm certain that I'm not all alone either. It really has seemed that God helped to temper this year of covid with better weather, and He may just be getting us to a vaccine date faster. We should be grateful for all of these things. You can clearly see that even though more and more people that we know have been afflicted with the virus, that God has still delivered blessings to us. The weather during this past Summer and Fall was proof of that. Once again it is apparent that in the midst of horrible darkness, the Light of the World brightens our lives. In Him we should only place our trust. He's coming to give us a reason to celebrate in twenty days. Come Lord Jesus, we can really use You right now. As today is Secular Saturday, I've gone back to 1971 to share a song that has been a favorite of mine since then. It is called "Don't Pull Your Love" by Hamilton, Joe Frank, and Reynolds. I hope you enjoy your step back to a better time of music today. Find joy in it today. Peace!