

December 7, 2020

Pastor Green's Daily Encouragement

Do you know what happens in two weeks? No, not Christmas, that's coming, but a little later than two weeks from now. I'm talking about the winter solstice that occurs on December 21. On that day the earth will reach its maximum tilt away from the sun, and on that day we will have the lowest amount of daylight in 2020. Yes, the day with the most darkness, just what we need more of in this pandemic year. There is good news here also, on the day after, the 22nd, the days begin their six month climb to get longer, with more light. The light is so important during this time of the year. People suffer from seasonal effective disorders due to the lack of light. They wake up in the dark, work all day, then go home in the dark and spend the rest of the evening in the darkness. This is a perfect reason as to why the lights of Christmas are so appropriate, not only this year, but every year. We decorate our homes, inside and out to remind us that the Light is returning, just as promised. That Light of course is the Son, the Son of God, our Messiah and Savior. He is coming soon, as is the return of the other sun. Morning has broken, but the sun is far from being ready to appear, but even in the darkness, the Son of the Father is with us, He never leaves us. Find your guidance today in that Light, the Light of the World. Our song today is appropriately named "Light of the World" and is performed by Lauren Daigle. Come to us today Lord Jesus