We are only about nineteen days away from Easter Sunday. In case you've ever wondered why the date of Easter moves every year, here is the formula. Easter is always the first Sunday after the first full moon after the vernal (Spring) equinox. The equinox will be the day that there is equal amounts of day and night, in other words twelve hours of both. That is approaching quickly and will be here on the 20th. That's pretty impressive knowing that we will have twelve hours of daylight, while two months ago on January 20th there were only 9 hours and 32 minutes of daylight. Well, now that we have the date of the equinox we look for the first full moon after that, and it arrives on the 28th. Easter occurs on the first Sunday after that, which is April 4th. Even more important as to when it arrives, the reason for the celebration is the greatest event in human history. On that day we celebrate the resurrection of Jesus Christ from death and the tomb in order to save the world from their sinful human condition. This is more than just a holiday, this is God's promise to His children, to you and me. Because Jesus rose from the dead and now lives, we too will live with Him in His kingdom, which shall have no end. Never forget, God's promises always arrive, and never doubt Him, He has never been wrong. Our song on this Tuesday morning is "Your Presence is a Promise" by Mack Brock. Have a swell day!
