It was just three short months ago and we were singing songs to celebrate the best present of all, the greatest gift that the world has ever received. That great gift was a baby born in a stable and placed in a manger for a bed. No one could possibly grasp the importance of that birth without understanding what happened during this week, thirty three years later the virgin birth of Jesus. This week brings it all home, we can now perfectly understand why that baby was the greatest gift for all human kind. This week in history opens our eyes to the reason behind the Christmas season. Nothing that we have ever owned is as important as having a Savior. Nothing that we have ever done is as good as having Jesus. Indeed, He is the Best Present of All. He is our Prince of Peace, and nothing in the past and nothing in the future will be as good as having Him in our lives. We won't be celebrating just yet, that will come on Sunday when we learn of an empty tomb. There are still horrible things that come prior to the Resurrection of the King, and those things need to be remembered to remind us of how much He did for us. Yes my friends, the best that we will ever receive at any stage of our lives was born in Bethlehem two thousand years ago, then He died on a Cross not very far from where He was born. And it was all done for you, and me. Please never forget that. Our Tuesday song is titled "Better" by Pat Barrett. This directs us to the same understanding of the life given for us. Peace my friends.
