Good morning folks, Thursday is here and the One Who gave us life as well as the days of the week is here with us too. What a blessing to know that when you wake up, no matter what time that might be, your Creator is already with you sending His mercies for your new morning. You can't wake up too early or too late for God, He is always present in your life, even on days that you feel all alone. With God in your life, you are never alone. He is showing most of the United States His sense of humor this week with higher than average temperatures, then He gives us some cold and rain. Then He sits back and listens as we thank Him for the beautiful days then whine to Him about the cooler, wet ones. He knows that we're never satisfied, yet He forgives us just the same. My prayer for all of us is that we would learn to recognize His hand in our lives, especially when He gives us something that we need (rain) yet we are not happy about. Don't worry, be happy today with every blessing from God. Our Thursday song is from Steven Curtis Chapman, and it is called "I Will Not Go Quietly." I will go quietly, back to bed as it is a little too early yet. Have a super day in the name of the Lord.
