Hello my friends! Welcome to another beautiful day that the Lord has given us. We are so very blessed, and not only with the weather, but God has provided all that we need to sustain our lives today. These are great days to sit and look back on life and see where God's hand was at work, even if you didn't notice it at the time. They say that hindsight is 20/20, and that is especially true with our memories. I can always see where God was working and leading in my life when I look back. Take some time to do that today, and take some more time to see where He is working in your life right now. Do you have a rood over your head, and do you have enough to eat? If you do, then give Him the thanks that He certainly deserves. One of the things that I am thankful for is music, and I'm thankful to have grown up at a time that music was good. I feel bad for the kids today, the noise that they call music is not the same as we enjoyed. My youngest grandson who is not yet four years old has a love for 1970's music, and I congratulate him on his choices. And that reminds me that today is Secular Saturday, so let's go back to those 1970's for some great music from one of the top bands from that time. Here for your listening pleasure is the Grass Roots singing "Sooner or Later." Have a superb Saturday in the grace and love of Christ.
