Happy weekend to everyone. I decided to sleep a little later today, and I guess that seeing no time clock here that I'm allowed to do it. I hope that you are able to sleep in today as well. Rest is important, it leaves us in a better mood all day, and it is just healthier to be well rested. Sleep was a wonderful part of God's Creation. We tend to get so busy and wrapped up in things that we sabotage our own sleep. We weren't made to suffer insomnia or any other problem that keeps us awake. When you go to bed, turn your problems over to God and let Him handle them for you, He never sleeps, and doesn't need to, but we do need. So ease into your day with prayers to God for giving you a new morning. While you're at it, send some prayers for family and friends and for their needs. Everyone can use your prayers. I am praying for everyone who is reading this and I ask that God would provide everything that you need to maintain the life that God has given you. Be well today, and be lifted up in the love of God which surpasses all understanding. Our Secular Saturday song is a classic by the Moody Blues called "Wildest Dreams." Take a step back in time this morning. Peace and Love and Rock n Roll.
