Wake up to a new gift from God. That's right, this new day is a new gift. Every day that we have been given is a blessing from God, so take some time today to thank Him for those blessings. I didn't sleep well, but it's still Sunday morning, and I will be in worship of just a few hours from now, and everything will be right with the world for a few hours. Being in the presence of God in His house is something that would improve all of our lives, I'm going to see mine improved today. I'll be asking Him to forgive my sins, and to lead and guide me to a life more in tune to what His children are called to live. In other words, I'll ask God today to make me more like Jesus, more like a son that a great Father like Him deserves. And I'll fail, and I'll keep asking, and He will continue to pick me up, forgive me, and re-direct me. He will do the same for you . . . just ask. What is holding you back from a wonderful relationship with God, only you? Don't let your sins keep you from growing in faith today. If you suffer with addictions, give them up to Jesus. If you suffer from jealousy and it is effecting your daily and spiritual life, then turn it over to Jesus, with a prayer of repentance. Whatever is holding you back from walking more closely with your Savior, then give it to Him to handle. He has given us everything, up to and including His very life, He is just waiting to do more. Go to Him today. Our Song for this Sunday morning is called "Revelation Song" and it is performed by Phillips, Craig, and Dean. Be lifted up today in the power of God.
