

August 7, 2021

Home sweet home! As much fun as it is to travel, there is always something special about returning to the familiar. Your own bed and pillow. Your own shower. Your own tables and chairs, and your very own coffee maker. These K-cups are a great invention as it allows me to try different coffees all day long, including decaf in the late afternoon and evening. We're safe at home, as is everyone traveling with us, and we're already looking ahead to the Sight and Sound Theater's 2022 production of David. That is going to be one fantastic show. Seeing the stories of the Bible brought to life really captivates the love that our Creator Father has for His children. If you ever have an opportunity to attend one of their shows in Lancaster, PA or in Branson, Missouri, don't delay, go and enjoy.

The theaters and productions are the same in each city, but they rotate the productions so that they are showing something different simultaneously. And if you go to Lancaster, which is much closer, take one of my new favorite words with you . . . smorgasbord. Lancaster County, Pennsylvania is noted for them, and they are tremendous, but wear loose fitting clothes. God has blessed us with safe travels, and I especially appreciate all of your prayers to help us achieve that goal. Please always pray for friends and family who are traveling, and do the same for yourself before you leave the house. God is listening, and if He hears me, then He will hear you as well. Have a super secular Saturday in the name of Jesus. Our secular song for today is one you probably haven't heard in quite a while, "The Last Farewell" by Roger Whittaker. Not exactly rock n roll, but a great song just the same. Peace to you.