What a day we were given for our St. Paul picnic yesterday. The weather was perfect, the food was excellent, and the company was better yet. Thank you Lord for a perfect day. And we're back to the beginning of another new work week, and we've officially entered the second half of August. Slow down Summer, you're moving much too fast. The only good thing about that is we're getting closer to the Bills season coming soon. The Buffalo Bills are the only reason that I ever turn a television on, so I have that to look forward to. None of us know how many seasons we have remaining in the lives that we were given, so make the best of every moment. Seek ways to be blessings to others, and I don't mean just family, but to anyone with a need that you can fill. God has blessed us with many gifts, and often He gives us these things to share with others, so be a blessing. Just as you are lifted up in His love and mercy, be loving and merciful to others. Direct those who are lost to His throne of grace. Guide them to the Cross of Jesus and see how that affects their lives, and your own in the process. God has surely been most faithful, He's been so much more than kind, share that kindness today. Do it because He loves you. Our song for this Marvelous Monday is called "Jesus Loves Me" by Chris Tomlin. It's not the song you grew up singing, it's different, so give it a listen, and see if you find yourself in the lyrics.
