

August 21, 2021

Time to get up and smell the coffee, or whatever it is that you're drinking and eating. Your weekend has arrived, don't waste any of it. Of course if you need a little extra sleep this morning, I understand that perfectly. Go back to bed for a bit, and smell the coffee in a couple hours from now. It's secular Saturday, and I have no idea what it is that I'm going to do today. It's not that I don't have anything to do, it's just that there is so much that needs to be done that I don't know where to start. Maybe I'll start by going back to bed for a while too. It could happen. I was originally hoping that picking a song for today would be the most difficult thing I do, but that's not going to be the case. God is good, He has given us this day to do what we please. Perhaps it would be a good day to walk around the city market and shop for fresh fruits and veggies, and for all of the other goodness that they sell there such as sausage, cheeses, donuts. Yes, that could be a good short trip today. You'll notice that I didn't say anything about flowers. That's because we have more than enough of those. This is truly the day that the Lord has made, let us rejoice and be glad in it, and let us start rested, refreshed, and with a good cup of coffee, also a gift from Him. Have a great day my friends, don't overdo it, just do it. Thank you Lord for this brand new day, amen. Well, after much consideration, I've gone back to the early 70's for this classic, "Colour My World" by Chicago. Be at peace with this great song today.