Happy Saturday to you. It is secular Saturday but my thoughts this morning are anything but secular. I'm asking myself "What would Jesus do?" at the same time that I'm praying for the wisdom of Solomon. Yes, I have a bit of a quandary this morning as grandson Theo is playing a baseball game this morning in North Tonawanda, at the same time that grandson Graham is playing a soccer game in the Town of Tonawanda. To further complicate the question, I love baseball, but I detest soccer. The obvious choice should be to stay on Wheatfield St. and watch baseball, but I have seen many of Theo's Fall baseball games, while I have not seen any of Graham's games yet. I'm thankful that Max doesn't have an activity this morning too. Many of you will be making more important decisions today, possibly life and death decisions. This is where Jesus is truly needed. Life can never be only secular as the need for divine guidance is always at hand. We do not have the tools to make every decision on our own, but we need the Word of God to direct us in the way that we should go. Turn your thoughts and your eyes upon Jesus and see where He leads you this day, as He knows best. Our secular Saturday song is a great tune from the mid 1970's and it is called "Never Been Any Reason" by Head East. Have some fun with this song. As for my decision, stay tuned.
