Marvelous Monday greetings to you. It looks like it's going to be a nice day, so enjoy it while you can, we all know what is coming. Today's beginning is better than last Monday's, especially because we didn't go to sleep with visions of a Bills loss fresh in our minds. So yes, I have to believe that we are happier when they win, and that carries over into the work week. It sounds somewhat superficial, but that's the way we're wired. In the large scheme of life, what a sports team does shouldn't have much bearing on our lives, but we let it happen. In reality we would find much more happiness in serving other people, just as Jesus calls us to do, just as He does. When we have a choice between serving ourselves, or serving God's children, the best decision always rests in our service to others. Find a way to be a blessing to someone else today, especially to someone who cannot do anything for you. Give as Jesus gave, and see your life improve in great measure. Our Monday morning song is by Bradley Bridges and it is titled "Jesus is King." He really is!
