

Monday, October 4, 2021

Happy Monday to everyone. This is the day that the Lord has made, but He made it a very wet one. I'm not sure if I'll be driving my truck to church this morning, or perhaps I should find a kayak to paddle over with. Yeah, we received that much rain yesterday and over night. The fish in the pond will be swimming in the back yard today, kinda like we had over the summer. This will be another question I have for God one day, why did we get all of that rain when they needed it so much more out west? I'm sure it's part of His plans, but I don't have access to those, at least not until I make it to His Kingdom. Don't forget to check your basements today, you don't want to see water down there. I know my sump pump has been running quite a bit. Check on your's too. I'm praying that you have an incredible day in the joy, the mercy, and the grace of God. Let His peace be your guide today. Our song for this marvelous Monday is "Listen to Our Hearts" by Casting Crowns. Be still and know that He is God.