

Tuesday, October 5, 2021

I'm considering saying good morning, but I'm not ready for that just yet. Bedtime came a couple of hours later last night, so it feels like the middle of the night, and I'm going back to sleep for a bit.

The Holy Spirit got me up just long enough to post this message, and here I am. It is Tuesday, and it'll have to come to me a little later today. God is good, and He is unchanging in His goodness. His mercies are new to us every morning, and His love is never ending. Whatever life throws at you is no match for Him, He can defeat any opponent, and He can deliver us from every horrible situation that we find ourselves. Cast your cares on Him today, and watch how His great love overpowers and overshadows every trouble in our lives. CeCe Winans is signing our song this morning/evening and it is called "Believe For It." Talk to you when I'm better rested.