

Tuesday, October 12, 2021

A Blessed Tuesday morning to you! We've managed to make it to another new day, and that means it is time to rejoice in the blessings that are new to us this morning. Where is your day heading? I pray that it is easy and relaxed, with little or no grief. And if it is like that, send up a prayer for other brothers and sisters in faith who are struggling with problems today. Some may be health concerns, family trouble, employment struggles, or some may be experiencing the loss of a loved one. Pray for their strength, for their healing, and their comfort and peace. We have another memorial for a sister in faith tonight. This one hits home as she is related to me through marriage, and through a long friendship with her children. I was blessed to have been able to officiate the wedding of her granddaughter and then baptize her great-grandchildren. Every person suffering loss has a story to tell, and their pain is real, and Jesus can bring the necessary comfort and healing. Pray for this family and all families who are grieving and mourning today, and every day. Lift these people to the Lord to turn their pain over to Him. He is qualified to handle these things. Our song for this Tuesday is from Mercy Me and it is called "Even If." Have a beautiful day in the name of Jesus. Amen.