

Tuesday, October 19, 2021

If today were Wednesday I could play an old, sad country song and it would perfectly express the feelings across Western New York. But it is only Tuesday, yet there is still a sadness. Yes, I'm referring to the Bills loss last night to Tennessee. And that is all I'm going to say about it, I've already lost too much sleep over it. So blessings on your Tuesday morning. I'll bet that you haven't had enough sleep yet, so once you listen to today's song, go back and sleep a little longer. Or go now and come back and finish here later. We may not be happy campers this morning, but God still loves us. God still calls us His children, and why would He not, He created us. He created us to thrive and to grow in faith. And He did all this with the knowledge that we would question everything, just as we are all questioning a last second decision that occurred a few hours ago. Oh, wait, I'm sorry, I said that I wouldn't say anymore about the game. Once you're better rested, get up and begin a brand new day in the name of the Lord. Give Him your thanksgiving for giving you life. Read that again, that is a lot of giving, just as He does much giving. Have a most terrific Tuesday in the Lord's name and in His love and mercy. Our song for this day should be a dirge, but it isn't. We'll be listening to Petra singing "No Doubt." Have a tremendous Tuesday.