Buenos dias Amigos (Good morning Friends). Thursday morning and all seems to be well, at least as far as I can tell at this hour. I can hear a train in the distance, my newspaper was just delivered, and that means the world is still functioning beyond my kitchen window. So that is a good thing, life goes on. In the midst of trouble, goodness still prevails, life continues and with that, children are born, children grow, young adults get married and have children of their own. In every situation that causes us grief, God is still in control and He provides for what we need. All we need to do is ask Him in prayer. Once again, what a Friend we have in Jesus. He is all that we really need, all that is necessary in life, because no matter what occurs, He has given us the promise and the way to eternal life. All we will ever need is Jesus. Our song for this Thursday is called "We Need Jesus." It is performed by Petra, but this time there are two lead singers of popular secular bands singing with them. One of those is John Elefante from Kansas, and the other is Lou Gramm, formerly of Foreigner. It was a good song without them, it is better because they lent their God given talents. Have a super day, in the name that is above all names, Jesus Christ the Lord.
