Good Wednesday morning to everyone, and not just any Wednesday, but a western Wednesday. I'm going to go out on a limb and guess that you voted for people who won their elections yesterday, and for some who lost. I'm going to suggest that if our candidates didn't win, that we get over it, quickly. Jesus never promised us that life would always be peachy if we followed Him, He actually taught us that life would often be difficult for his followers, so move on with a Christian attitude. Everyone deserves a chance to show what they can do once they are sworn into office. Even if all of your instincts tell you differently, save your judgment until they've had a chance to prove themselves. You may be absolutely correct in your assessments, but that is for the future to decide. Maintain a Christian lifestyle and don't get caught up in mud-slinging or name calling, that is clearly not what Jesus would have you do. And above all else, pray for these people, those who you may have voted for, and those whom you did not. Ask God to guide and direct their public service so that they would do just that, be servers to God's children. Our song for this western Wednesday is a Garth Brooks song that was used in the movie Frequency. This video uses it in a different light, here is "When You Come Back to Me Again."
