Good morning! Are you aware that tomorrow is Thanksgiving Day already? It seemed so far away, then it snuck right up on us. Surprise, it's here. Don't forget, tomorrow is not turkey day, or anything other than what it was designed for, tomorrow is a day for us as Americans to stop and give thanks to God for all of His many blessings. We'll be having a worship service this evening at 7:00 for just that purpose, to prepare to enter that day with thankful hearts. But we won't just jump over this day, we have things to do today as well. For instance, it is western Wednesday, and that means some country music for our listening enjoyment, and today has a great country duet for our enjoyment. The late Keith Whitley originally performed this song alone, but later Alison Krauss lent her terrific voice to it. The song is "When You Say Nothing at All." Music is just one more thing that we have to be thankful for. Prayerfully you've come to appreciate some of these songs that I've been adding to these posts. A great song is a blessing to us all. Some day when you have a few free minutes, go onto Youtube and listen to the wonderful music available, then say, thank You Lord for the gift of song. As promised, here is our western Wednesday song.
